Day-Old Girl in Air Race for Life

DETROIT, April 24 (AP)—Born with no connection between her esophagus and stomach, one-day-old Shirle Beth Cannell was flown to Detroit today in an oxygen tank for an operation to save her life.

Accompanied by a nurse, the baby was hurried to Henry Ford Hospital after arriving here from Rockford, Ill., on a Pennsylvania Central Airliner.

She was born Tuesday at St. Anthony's Hospital in Rockford. Her affliction prevented her from taking nourishment.

Dr. Conrad Lamb of the hospital staff said the operation was scheduled for late today and probably would require about two hours.

proposal for a thorough investigation of Franco Spain. Sources close to Stettinius said he might ask Australian delegate W. R. Hodgson to clarify the scope of the inquiry but was prepared to go along with the growing list of delegates who have lined up behind the proposal.

This word came as the council took a one day recess after yesterday's stormy session in which Russia lost her battle to have the council drop the Iranian case and announced she would boycott any further discussion of it.

Sir Alexander Cadogan, British delegate, also was reported to have received instructions to back the Australian proposal. Mexico and Poland previously had indicated they would support the measure, and it was believed Russia and France were ready to go along.

The other delegates were expected to follow the lead of the big powers, which for once seemed to be in agreement.

It thus appeared that the Spanish question was finally slated for action when the council meets tomorrow.

The proposal was made to relieve a serious traffic situation in downtown Boston and immediately was favored by virtually every organization in the city. Among those who favored it were Gov. Wicks, U. S. Sen. Lodge, Speaker Frederick B. Willis, Rep. Peter Jordan, Rep. John E. Flaherty as well as many other leaders of both political parties.

MRS. WILLIAM THOMPSON

Wife Freed From Dad of British Quads

PITTSBURGH, April 24 (AP)—Mrs. William Thompson, 27-year-old beauty operator, asked a divorce today from her ex-GI husband, who fathered quadruplets by an English WAAF, and after a 10-minute hearing Judge Thomas M. Marshall granted her an uncontested divorce immediately.

Mrs. Thompson testified that "the case's notoriety" had rejected her to "indignities." She said "curious" people embarrassed her, that she was "pointed out" on the street, spent "many a sleepless night," and lost 23 pounds.

The pretty brunette woman, modishly garbed in said she first received word of the case March 1, 1944, when a newsman telephoned from New York to say her husband, then an Army father of quadruplets in England.

Judge Marshall congratulated
Mrs. Thompson for charging indignities rather than "other grounds."

Miss Nora Carpenter, mother of the quads, has announced she would come to America with the three surviving children and marry Thompson as soon as a divorce was granted. The three are Medeline, Maureen and Michael. The fourth child, Donald, died a few days after birth.

2 Drowned In Plymouth

PLYMOUTH, April 24 — Two men lost their lives in a mysterious drowning in Plymouth harbor during the night and a police investigation was started after recovery of the bodies today. The victims were Arthur F. Hughes Jr., 41, and Arthur Upham, 51, resident neighbors of Pleasant Upham's body was recovered with grappling irons from the bottom of Hobbs Hole channel and Hughes' body was found two hours later nearby. Hughes, a lobsterman, was discharged from the Seabees last November after serving in the Pacific.

The two left their homes early last evening to spend the night aboard Hughes' 35-foot powerboat, anchored a half-mile off Stephen's field. Their dory was found this morning about 10 yards from the powerboat. It had overturned and anchored itself. Several half-eaten sandwiches were found aboard the motor craft.

Police said there was no untoward weather during the night and they were at a loss to explain the deaths.

Both victims lived with their parents. Hughes was divorced. Upham, single, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Upham.

Duce's Body Taken Across River Po

ROME, April 24 (AP)—A mysterious telephone caller told the Milan newspaper Corriere Lombardo today the body of Benito Mussolini, stolen from a grave in potter's field yesterday, has been spirited south across the River Po.

The anonymous caller said: "This night at 3 o'clock Mussolini's body has passed the Po river at Caorso."

Caorso is near Piacenza. The caller said the body was taken across the river in a boat, but declined to say how many were aboard.

The newspaper said the man was believed to be the same as the one who called yesterday and declared "a body has been stolen from Maggiore cemetery in Milan."

Interior Minister Romita ordered police to block all highways from Milan in an effort to frustrate any attempt to bring Mussolini's exhumed body to Rome.

Romita declared "one man alone" knew the exact location of the unmarked grave in a Milan potter's field from which the former Duce's remains were stolen yesterday.

Milan newspapers, reported police had found near the open grave a note signed by the "Democratic Fascist party," which said in part:

"Duce, finally you are with us... Now you will have a grave worthy of your person and of all you accomplished," covered with roses and flowers."

The newspaper Il Momento said pamphlets had been circulating in Milan asserting "Mussolini belongs to history and therefore has a right to burial."

Gambler Roundup In Letendre Killing

By JAMES J. DELANEY
Boston Evening American Staff Reporter

WOONSOCKET, R. I., April 24—Nearly a score of "big time" gamblers were rounded up for questioning today in an attempt by slow but methodical elimination to solve the gangland murder of John F. "Big Jack" Letendre, Narragansett track official, sportsman and politician. The gamblers, all nationally known and seasonal visitors from Florida, New York and the Middle West, were routed from their beds at daybreak at three Providence hotels. Despite their prominence, inspectors gave slight heed to their protests. Each was told to report some time today at Woonsocket police headquarters for a thorough quizzing.

The roundup in New England was the first definite move in a probe that already is operating in five states—based on information that Letendre was blasted to death by the same gang that killed Edward J. O'Hare, horse and dog track king, and which has marked for death still another nationally known sportsman.

This new victim is said to have been given his death warrant—just as was "Big Jack"—for being a stumbling block to powerful gambling interests that milked profits of $20,000,000 during the Florida winter season.

Assassins shot and killed O'Hare, part owner of the Taunton dog track and formerly of Dighton, after he vainly tried to elude them in an automobile race along a Chicago boulevard in 1939.

Letendre died similarly when gunmen followed his beachwagon from the Blackstone Hotel and riddled him to death 300 yards from his Prospect st. mansion.

Probers hunting through the victim's recent financial transactions for a clue turned to Viola Dudley, Letendre's secretary for 20 years, who still is visibly shaken by the murder.

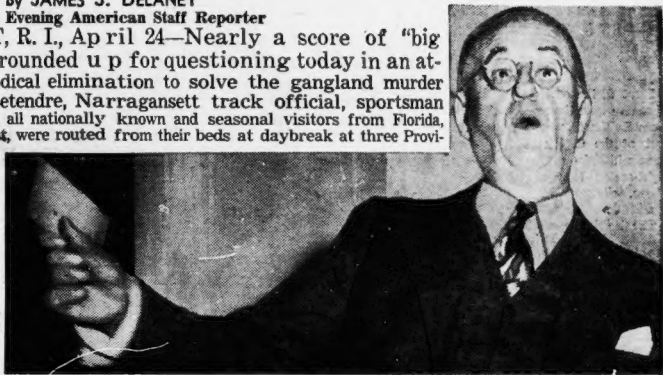

"Why would anyone want to do such a thing," she declared. "He was a nice and jolly. He never had a bad word about anyone. I can't understand it at all."

From her, however, investigators learned something of Letendre's finances. His recent checks are being studied as well as cash bank withdrawals. Police also want to inspect safety deposit vaults he is known to have maintained in Boston, Woonsocket and Providence.

Woonsocket Inspectors Ernest Cole and Edward Cournoyer, accompanied by State Police, made the early morning hotel roundup. They had the names of the men they wanted. All are regular Rhode Island visitors when Narragansett race track is operating.

To reporters, the investigators

Jake Lindsey Is Daddy Now--It's 8-Pound Girl

Jake W. Lindsey, Congressional Medal of Honor hero, and Mrs. Lindsey, the former Beverly Hargreaves of Lexington, became parents of an 8-pound daughter today—and the "one man army" said war was nothing compared to what he had just been through. The baby was born at 3 a. m. at Wyman House, Cambridge, where mother and daughter are reported "doing nicely." Lindsey said he was also recovering, but confessed he was shakier after his ordeal of becoming a father than he'd ever been on the battlefield.

JAKE LINDSEY
Stork Brought a Girl

The hero and his 19-year-old Lexington sweetheart were married May 27, 1945, in his home town of Lucedale, Miss., one week after the Boston American played Cupid to bring the couple together on Lindsey's return from Europe to receive the Medal of Honor.

As the nurse broke the news, "it's a girl," to Lindsey this morning, the famed infantryman said: "We're thrilled to death. I've been sweating it out at the hospital, twisting my thumbs and reading magazines since I brought Beverly here yesterday afternoon."

"I must have lost eight pounds—but I gained them back. That's what the baby weighs."

"For a while my knees were wobbly. I'd rather take on the Nazis any time."

With Beverly's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Hargreaves of Massachusetts ave., Lexington, he returned to the hospital later for his first glimpse at his daughter. He said: "Grandpop has a smile from ear to ear."

As to a name, he explained he and Beverly had agreed that if their baby were a boy, he'd name it; if a girl, she would. "She won, so it's up to her."

Last May, when Lindsey, then an infantry sergeant, was flown to Washington from Czechoslovakia to receive his award from President Truman, he sent a telegraphed invitation to attend the ceremony to Beverly, with whom he had corresponded regularly, but whom he hadn't seen since he went overseas.

She failed to receive the wire as she was on Cape Cod. Later, both Jake and Beverly tried vainly to contact each other.

The American succeeded in arranging a long distance telephone hookup whereby they talked with each other for the first time after Lindsey's return from overseas.

Joke-Will Replies Swamp Executor

WESSINGTON, S. D., April 24—F. D. Fitch, named by C. C. Richardson to be executor of his

"joke definition" will, is a bus man these days. As postmaster, Fitch handles all mail here, and now he finds most of it is for him.

Over a thousand answers have come in, to Richardson's question "Why does and did the four letter word 'joke' define and answer the all and total meaning of the Holy Bible and the sociological meaning of man and the earth?"

No one has posted the $500 bond Richardson stipulated. Biggest day was Sunday when 137 letters arrived.

Answers included one saying: "A joke is the OPA."

Probable answer to the riddle is "Jesus Only Kills Evil."

The will is being contested by relations.

Eastern Winners to Vie In Oratory Test Tonight

By BERT FORD

Ready and eager for the oratorical showdown tonight, five of the seven contestants in the Eastern zone finals of the 1946 Hearst Newspapers National Oratorical Contest: "Andrew Jackson, Seventh President of the United States," arrived in Boston to swing into action with the two local Boston champions. The visitors came from Albany, New York and Baltimore, and they were given a royal welcome by their host city, preparatory to the friendly rivalry tonight at Boston Latin School auditorium.

First of the oratorical winners to arrive were the representatives from Baltimore, who after a brief rest at the Copley Plaza Hotel, were whisked over the road on a sight-seeing tour of the South Shore, climaxed by a visit to Plymouth.

The Baltimore challengers are William N. Heil, 17, a senior at Loyola High School, and Louis Milio, 19, a law student at the University of Baltimore. They were under escort of Aldine R. Bird, contest editor of the News-Post. With Milio were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Placidio Milio.

A swing through historic South Shore shrines was yesterday's program for the Baltimore delegation. Starting through the Blue Hills, the group visited the Adams mansion, home of two presidents of the United States, and stopped at the famous old First Parish Church in Quincy.

At Scituate they viewed the "Old Oaken Bucket" enshrined in poetry by Samuel Woodworth, and at Plymouth they stood silent at Plymouth Rock, where America's Pilgrim Fathers waded ashore. After a luncheon at Toll House, Whitman, they came back to Boston to rejoin the other groups of contestants for the evening's entertainment.

Next to arrive with her party was the Albany champion—sole winner in her city's local finals, and only girl to attain the eastern zone finals. She is Miss Ann Moran, 18, a senior at Cathedral Academy, Albany, and flew to Boston from her home city. She and her sister and Jean Alden of the Albany Times-Union were met at Logan International Airport by contest officials and escorted to the hotel.

Last to reach Boston was the contingent from New York, arriving by train during the afternoon. The winners are Anthony J. Bivona, 17, a senior at La Salle Academy, and John J. Saal, 21, a veteran of World War II, now completing his education as a law student at St. John's University, Brooklyn. They were accompanied by Fred Curran, oratory contest editor of the Journal-American.

All visiting contestants expressed pleasure and enthusiasm in their Boston visit as they were greeted by their hosts, the two local winners, Roland Weyand, 17, of Waban rd., Quincy, a senior at Boston College High School, and William A. Burke, 26, another World War II veteran, of Mohan st., Everett, a student at Staley College of the Spoken Word.

They joined at an informal dinner at the hotel, and later were guests at a theater party. Today they are due for a whirl of entertainment, including a sight-seeing tour of Boston and a visit to the historic battlegrounds of Concord and Lexington, with luncheon at Wayside Inn in Sudbury.

All the contestants appeared confident and eager for the big moment of the actual test of oratory tonight. And none could conceal their hope that in winning these zone finals, they would be eligible for the most important of all tests—the national finals.

New Plastics in Furniture Will Ease Labor in Homes

NEW YORK, April 24 (AP)—Piano tops, davenports and overstuffed chairs light enough to be moved easily by the average woman are among more than 100 possible applications of low-density core plastic materials, Robert A. Hoffer, technical service engineer of Du Pont's plastics department, said today.

The new plastics, Hoffer told the society of the plastics industry convention, are designed to increase the stiffness of a structure without adding significantly to its weight. Principal present application, he said, is in aircraft for more than 20 items including fuselage sections, wing structures, doors, ribs, flooring and accessories.

DuPont's new CCA core material is adaptable to assembly-line methods and would be useful in the housing industry, he added. Wall panels, flooring cabinet and exterior panel application now are being investigated.

Other possible uses Hoffer cited for the lightweight material included luggage, panels for house trailers and railroad cars, panels and sections for refrigerators,

These Days

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1946, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

THE INTRANSIGENT attitude adopted by Soviet Russia and Poland—one country—at UN is logical, consistent and constant. It is in harmony with the Bolshevik goal of the world revolution.

Some impractical and unknowing Americans may believe that Russia's subjugation of Iran, the Communist revolution in Manchuria, Poland's plea for intervention in Spain are separate and distinct items.

That is an incorrect view. They are part of a program of world conquest.

In the authoritative work, "History of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union"—a book which every Communist everywhere on earth is required to read and to believe absolutely—this appears:

"The study of the history of the C. P. S. U. (R.) strengthens our certainty of the ultimate victory of the great cause of the party of Lenin-Stalin, the victory of Communism throughout the world."

Stalin in his essay on Leninism says:

"... In this period the proletariat is confronted with new tasks, the tasks of reorganizing all party work on new, revolutionary lines; of educating the workers in the spirit of revolutionary struggle for power; of preparing and moving up reserves; of establishing an alliance with the proletarians of neighboring countries; of establishing firm ties with the liberation movement in the colonies and dependent countries..."

VICTOR KRAVCHENKO, whose amazing volume, "I Chose Freedom," should be read by every American who really wants to know what is happening in this mixed-up world, was working in the Kremlin on engineering problems related to the war when the United States and Soviet Russia were allies.

He was high up in the Sovnarkom, which, to use bureaucratic language, was close to the top-most levels. To make sure that such high and mighty Communist party members, actually near the peak of all power, did not get their dogma twisted by the course of events, special meetings were held to indoctrinate them.

Kravchenko reports a speech of Comrade Yudin, whom he describes as one of Stalin's foremost theoreticians:

"I come now to America, comrades. There the Roosevelt policy of playing along with the Soviets as long as it's useful has evoked a strong opposition, as is only natural in the greatest stronghold of capitalism... Comical as it may sound to us, these people (the opposition to Roosevelt) think that Roosevelt has sold out to the U. S. S. R. and to Communism. They don't understand that Roosevelt, like Attlee, represents the last outpost against inevitable Communism. They don't understand that this war alliance with the U. S. S. R. is just a marriage of convenience. We hate capitalism as much as they hate us. We will never, never retreat from the tasks set before us and before history by Lenin and Stalin!"

Then Yudin added:

"Comrades, our war partnership with the capitalist nations must not breed illusions. We must hold fast to fundamentals. There are two worlds. Now and then it is possible to throw a bridge across the gulf that divides them, as we have done in this war. But we know that the bridge must collapse sooner or later. The two worlds of capitalism and Communism cannot forever exist side by side.

"As long as we live in a capitalist encirclement we are in danger, comrades. Never forget that. Don't fall into errors of thinking on the basis of Lend-Lease. It's a bargain, in which we are paying dearly with our sacrifices of Soviet blood and Soviet soil. Do not exaggerate the new and unnatural friendship..."

THE COURSE of events has proved the authenticity of Kravchenko's report. No sooner was V-E Day upon the world than Soviet Russia began to revert to type.

While we were still fighting Japan, much of the trouble was covered up by press censorship and the Roosevelt policies to hold the line.

After V-J Day, the Russian fury broke loose.

Coast Guard Rescues 2 Fishing Vessels

The fishing craft Jerry and Jimmy was towed to New Bedford, its home port, by the Coast Guard last night after fighting engine trouble off Nashawena island in Buzzards Bay.

Another Coast Guard rescue was effected off Cape Elizabeth, Me., where the Nora D. Sawyer, also a fishing vessel, sent up rockets after fouling its propeller in a net. It was taken to Portland, whence it had sailed.

Racket in Maple Sugar Black Market Gets Vermont Supply

By PAULINE WARREN

Already hampered by scarcity of butter, rationing of sugar, lack of meats, shortage of nylons, reduction of flour and paucity of fats, oils and soap powder, New England housewives were struck a devastating blow today with disclosure that maple syrup is on the black market. Yes, eight of 10 storekeepers say its tender richness and goeey goodness, not to mention its soothing smoothness and syrupy succulence, will tickle no proletarian palates unless purchasers pay $8 to $10 a gallon, or $3 to $4 a pound for maple sugar.

Maple's back but the mob has got it. That's the word all through Vermont, the state that produces a sizable chunk of the 24,000,000 pounds a year which the nation used to relish when it was plentiful.

The shortage of maple sugar is a result of the shortage of cane sugar. People found that as a substitute it tasted a lot better than saccharin. The OPA granted Vermont producers a lift in ceiling prices. The present ceiling cost to packers is 23 cents a pound or $2.53 a gallon.

But packers can't get any. A Boston grocer who tried to buy some on a four-day tour through Vermont reported to Malcolm McCabe that New York black marketeers had bought it all up. McCabe, secretary of the Massachusetts Retail Grocers Ass'n, said the grocer found one farm with 7000 buckets which wouldn't sell a gallon. Others wanted $2 a quart.

All over the Vermont countryside, the grocer said, people were whispering: "M-S-O-B-M. M-S-O-B-M. Maple Sugar's on the Black Market. Yes, Maple Sugar's on the Black Market."

And that, after all, is an old story. The secret of maple sugar always has been to know when to tap the sap.

Moran Ordered To Mental Test

Acting on the recommendation of Asst. Dist. Atty. Ephraim Martin, Judge Allan G. Buttrick in Middlesex Superior Court today ordered former Somerville Alderman Walter J. Moran committed to the Metropolitan State Hospital for a period of 35 days for observation.

Moran appeared on an appeal from a Somerville court sentence of 30 days imposed a week ago after he was found guilty of sounding a false alarm of fire.

Liked Accused Officer, Branded Girl Testifies

Helen Stavrou, brunette 18-year-old Westover Field stenographer, broke down on the stand in municipal court today as she confessed she had "liked" the Army flier who is charged with branding his initials on her breasts, thighs and hips with a cigaret while holding her prisoner at the Hotel Statler.

Dorchester Man Guilty in Attack

Bartley J. McDonough, 50, of Dorset st., Dorchester, former convict, was found guilty in Suffolk Superior Court today of assault and battery with intent to perpetrate a criminal attack on 20-year-old Helen Curran, Dorchester ave., Dorchester, in his home the night of Nov. 20.

Judge James C. Donnelly set sentence for Friday and increased McDonough's bail from $2500 to $7500.

Miss Curran testified McDonough tried to attack her when she went to his home at request of her mother, Mrs. Mary Curran, a beauty shop operator, for permanent wave clamps he had agreed to repair.

The defendant, a veteran of 34 missions against the Japs and holder of decorations, is Lt. Thomas Farrell, of Somerville, who was stationed at the air field.

Under cross-examination by his counsel, Herbert F. Callahan, the girl had stoutly denied asking Farrell for a date after the weekend of March 16-17, when she alleges the branding took place.

"Did you ever have any affection for him?" pressed Callahan. "Yes, I liked him," she admitted.

"Did you tell him so?" asked the lawyer.

Miss Favrou's voice broke as she answered, "I told him I liked him." She began to sob and asked for a handkerchief.

When she had recovered, Callahan asked her if she contemplated a civil suit against Farrell.

"I don't know," she said.

She denied ever telling anyone that if she couldn't have Farrell no one else would have him, or that she had invited him to her Holyoke room after the Boston week-end.

Miss Stavrou had previously testified she escaped from the hotel room the morning of March 17 by wrapping a sheet around her body and running down the corridor to the floor clerk after locking Farrell in the room.

Charles V. McGrath, of St. Stephen's st., Back Bay, a house detective, was put on the stand today to tell his version of what he saw when he answered a call from a superior to go to the sixth floor.

"I went up," said McGrath, "and Harry Stephenson, the assistant manager told me, 'She is not a guest, get her clothing and get her out.'"

He said Miss Stavrou was still wearing the sheet as he walked back with her to the room she had fled.

"She didn't speak," McGrath continued. "The lieutenant was in the room. He invited me to have a drink. She went in the bathroom to dress and I told her, 'Come on, now, make it snappy.' She didn't say anything."

"When she was going," he testified, "the lieutenant said to her, 'I want $10' and she opened her purse and gave it to him."

As to whether Lt. Farrell was intoxicated, McGrath said: "He was drunk. I mean good and drunk. I invited him out of the hotel."

Asst. Mgr. Stephenson testified that when he was directed to a linen room where the sheet-robed Miss Stavrou had taken refuge she had said nothing to him about being branded. She did not appear to have been drinking, he added.

Stephenson said he told her that so far as the hotel was concerned she was dimply a trespasser and that he had no sympathy for her.

An assistant bail captain, John Springer of O'Callahan way, South Boston, told of bringing drug store remedies to the room the previous night. He said Miss Stavrou paid him at Farrell's direction.

Springer said the girl did not look "disturbed," but acknowledged an introduction to him with, "How do you do," and sat down in a wrap while he and Farrell talked for a short while.

Farrell, he said, was clad in shorts.

Find Woman, Male Nurse Dead

DUNEDIN ISLES, Fla., April 24 (AP)—The bodies of Harry J. Iszard, a male nurse, and a woman he was accused of abducting, Mrs. Frances K. Bullen, were found in an automobile in an isolated spot here today.

The woman's husband, Robert K. Bullen, a Dunedin architect, identified the bodies.

Both were on the rear seat of the car, the windows rolled up and exhaust fumes conducted inside through a garden hose. Four notes were found, one from Mrs. Bullen to her husband.

This Boy a Bonnie Lassie!

NEWARK, N. J., April 24 (AP)—A 22-year-old Newark youth, Mario Del Gardo, told U. S. Com. William J. Bartholomew yesterday he had worn girls' and women's clothes practically all his life.

He was arraigned on a charge by the Federal Bureau of Investigation that he had failed to register for selective service. Del Gardo, attired in court in a man's sport jacket and brown trousers, told Bartholomew yesterday was only the second time in his life he had dressed as a man.

Probation Officer Matthew J. Smith quoted Del Gardo as saying he had graduated from a co-educational college in Florida as a girl with a degree of bachelor of arts, and had lived in many parts of the country as a woman.

Trailer Fire Kills Belmont Man

DARLEN, Ct., April 24 (AP)—A fire in a trailer-truck caused the death by suffocation today of a passenger who was taking a nap on a makeshift bunk inside.

The driver, Edward J. Spellman, 39, of 182 Commonwealth ave., Concord, Mass., identified the victim as James Marvin Gately, 54, of 17 Myrtle st., Belmont, Mass.

Spellman, police said, reported Gately got inside the truck for a nap while they were in Hartford. When he stopped the truck here, Spellman said he noticed smoke coming out of the truck.

Spellman and Gately were employed by Henry F. Owens of 129 Sherman st., Cambridge, Mass.

Plane Crew Dies Saving Homes

BURBANK, Cal., April 24 (AP)—Three crewmen of a Western Air Lines transport plane on a test flight without passengers were killed today when the pilot, making an emergency landing, swerved the big plane in an effort to avoid a house and its sleeping occupants.

C. N. James, air line vice-president, said a visit to the scene indicates clearly that the pilot sacrificed himself and his crew.

Last minute effort to avoid the house caused the pilot to lose control and the plane dove straight down at the rear of the Matthew Brychier residence, James said, damaging only the rear of the home.

502 Office Seekers Map Out Campaign

Political strategists started forming battle lines for the June primaries today, following a last-minute rush of candidates to file nomination papers before the 5 p. m. deadline yesterday, when 502 persons signified intentions of seeking office. John F. Kennedy, 21, naval hero and son of Joseph P. Kennedy, former ambassador to Great Britain, led the list of 18 candidates for Democratic nomination for Congress from the 11th District, the seat now held by Mayor Curley.

Another highlight of the filing was the re-entry of former Atty. Gen. Paul A. Dever into the political arena. He will seek nomination as lieutenant governor. Among his opponents will be Roger Lowell Putnam, ex-mayor of Springfield and, like Dever, once a Democratic gubernatorial nominee.

U. S. Sen. David I. Walsh was unopposed for Democratic nomination to his present post, as was Congressman John W. McCormack. Former Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., filed for Republican nomination to oppose Sen. Walsh in the election finals.

Gov. Tobin filed for re-election, and papers for Republican nomination as governor were submitted by Lt. Gov. Robert F. Bradford.

Papers were also filed for the governorship on behalf of State Sen. Edward M. Rowe, Cambridge Republican, but he said the action was not authorized by him and that he intends instead to seek re-election to the Senate.

Unauthorized papers were also filed for Rep. Edward A. Hutchinson, Jr., of Savin Hill ave., Dorchester, in the campaign for the Legislature. Hutchinson today withdrew the papers from the election commission and said that he was running for the Democratic nomination for Attorney General. He filed papers in this contest.

The primaries will not lack glamor. Miss Mary McNulty of Sheffield rd., Rosindale, Portia Law School graduate and beauty contest winner, is in the race for Democratic nomination to Congress from the 10th District.

Miss Rita Moyn of the Back

Dorothy F. Kelley, Jamaica Plain, member of the committee in charge of the Emmanuel College supper dance Saturday at Woodland Country Club. Joan Lawless, Wellesley Farms, and Anne Castello, Lowell, are co-chairwomen.

Bay also filed for the same nomination.

The present Congressman from that district, Rep. Christian A. Herter, filed for re-election in the Republican primaries and is opposed by Thomas J. Howard of Jamaica Plain.

Former Lt. Gov. Francis E. Kelly was one of six candidates to file for Democratic nomination as attorney general.

U. S. Army Frees Nazi Fritz Kuhn

FRANKFURT, April 24 (AP)—Fritz Kuhn, fuhrer of the German American Volksbund, will be released by the U. S. Army from a German internment camp tomorrow morning.

Chastened by long confinement and troubled by a heart illness, Kuhn was declared to be "not a threat" to American occupation forces in Germany. He was expected to proceed to Munich, where his wife and two children live in a bomb-damaged house.

In jail since 1939, Kuhn served more than 3½ years in prison in the United States for embezzlement of bond funds. He was deported in September, 1945.

Hub Relief Ship Off Tomorrow

Loaded with 8000 tons of wheat for Italy, the Liberty ship Patrick Henry is scheduled to sail from East Boston tomorrow with the first shipment of UNRRA goods to leave the port of Boston for starving Europe.

The Patrick Henry will be the first of five ships to sail this week, taking more than 20,000 tons of food and clothing under auspices of the UNRRA and government enterprise.

The SS Benjamin Schlesinger, now loading at East Boston, will sail within a few days for Poland carrying 1100 tons of canned meat, 3500 tons of lard, 672 tons of soap and scores of tons of Red Cross clothing.

The freighter Edwin F. Knowles is waiting in East Boston to load 6500 tons of wool and food for Italy. The S. S. Maurice Hillquit is docked in Charlestown taking on a similar cargo for Belgium, purchased by the Belgian government. The S. S. George Chamberlain will load next with another cargo destined for Belgium.

Frank S. Davis, manager of the Chamber of Commerce maritime association, telegraphed UNRRA Director LaGuardia today, asking him to obtain use of the Castle Island base here for UNRRA loadings so Boston's food shipments to Europe can be accelerated.

British MP Tests Starvation Diet

BRISTOL, England, April 24 (AP)—After five days on an experimental "starvation diet" of 1000 calories a day, W. F. Vernon, a Labor member of Parliament, reported today he felt "definitely weaker."

He said he would stick to his diet, designed to show him how hungry Europeans exist, "until I feel my efficiency is impaired."

But a Bristol doctor said Vernon's diet "is hardly a true comparison with starving continental countries" because the M. P. "is getting essential vitamins which are lacking in the monotonous diet in parts of Europe."

He is living on 11 ounces of bread, four ounces of skimmed milk, one-half ounce each of meat, sugar and margarine, and two and one-half ounces of green vegetables.

U. S. Increases Wheat Export

WASHINGTON, April 24 (AP)—The combined food board announced today it had increased the April allocation of wheat and other cereals for UNRRA from 363,000 to 460,000 tons.

Fiorella LaGuardia, director general of UNRRA, promptly termed the allotment far short of the "desperate needs" of famine-threatened areas abroad which are being supplied by his agency. He estimated minimum needs at approximately 700,000 tons.

Habeeb was also found guilty of assaulting her with a dangerous weapon and robbing her. Judge Walter L. Collins gave him eight to 10 years on the dangerous weapon count and six to eight years for the robbery, to run concurrently with the first sentence.

State Finances Called Phony

HOLYOKE, April 24—The record State budget of $126,077,000 now being considered by the Legislature was denounced as "phony finance" by Norman MacDonald, executive director of the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers Ass'n, speaking before the Combined Service Clubs here today.

MacDonald said the budget is a body blow to taxpayers, rent payers and municipalities. He declared it reveals "the State government is on the rocks and is spending 200-odd millions a year more than it can collect."

"In the face of such phony finance," MacDonald said "mayors and town finance committees struggling to hold taxes down find themselves helpless against the State's greed."

LAS VEGAS, Nev., April 24 (AP)—Officers today waited a chance to question the hospitalized, grief-stricken widow of Alex Papan, internationally-known Romanian aviator whose body was found on the desert 16 miles south of here yesterday, a victim of poison which Sheriff Lynn Jones said was self-administered.

Two notes addressed to Mrs. Papan, the former Jean Haeker, whom the one-time Olympic bobsled contestant married here March 30, referred to the couple's "lost love."

One of the notes read, "Just a month ago you used to say, 'I love you, I adore you, I worship you.' How you used to beg me to marry you. 'I did not know there was so much happiness on earth,' you told me a million times. How could you do all this?"

"I only hope that you had some type of insanity and was not responsible. Even now, when I am on my way, I still love you—love is lost. I love the Jean you used to be. We could have been so very happy, but somebody hurt you—too bad."

2 Sentenced In Prison Escape

Edward M. Greenman, 27, of Nightingale st., Dorchester, who escaped from state prison Feb. 15, was captured two days later, then failed in an attempted break with two other inmates March 18 after a fracas in which a prison engineer was slugged, was given three concurrent sentences of five to six years in Suffolk superior court today.

Greenman pleaded guilty before Judge James C. Donnelly to the escape, the attempted escape and assault with a dangerous weapon on Frederick M. Smith, 65, the engineer. The sentences are to begin after he completes a 6-to-10-year term he was given in 1941 for burglaries.

Robert P. Duncan, 21, of Jamaica Plain, who pleaded guilty to attempted escape and the slugging of Smith, was given a 3-to-4-year term to serve after he finishes a 10-to-12-year sentence for holdups.

Thomas A. Kent, 20, of Washington st., Jamaica Plain, charged with participation in the attempted escape, refused to plead and will go on trial later.

Cop Injured Making Arrest

A policeman was injured and a 34-year-old Negro arrested on a charge of assault and battery with a dangerous weapon today after a rough and tumble battle that began in a patrol wagon and ended on the street.

Patrolmen Arthur F. McLean and Martin Quinn of the Milk st. station responded to a complaint that a man was creating a disturbance at a Summer st. restaurant. They found Anderson C. Porter of Munroe st., Roxbury, who was given a ride to the station.

En route, Porter is alleged to have drawn a knife and, in the ensuing battle, tumbled from the wagon in Milk st., where the driver, Quinn, stopped the vehicle and aided in subduing the prisoner.

Witness Children's Hospital Exhibit

By ALICE BISSELL

A visit to the Children's Hospital reveals that the return of the swallow can be really alluring. All choking aside, the hospital has a mounted collection of items removed from the larynges, esophagi, bronchial tubes, tubes, etc., of tiny patients who came there as far back as 1918.

Today 18-month-old Thomas Ethier contributed the latest curio—a piece of plastic which looked tasty to him April 5, but which lodged in the left main bronchus, and was removed April 17.

That the number of such cases has increased 100 per cent during the past three years has been attributed to the large number of mothers working in industry and leaving children with little or no supervision, and to the fact that physicians are more alert in sending suspicious cases to hospitals for X-rays.

Many a supposed case of chronic lung infection or pneumonia which might have made the patient an invalid for life has been found, after X-rays, to be a peanut lodged in the lung.

One item in the collection is a tiny sand spur. The patient had been treated for asthma believed to have been contracted on the beach at Florida, but the discomfort, surgeons discovered, was from grass the little girl had swallowed.

Strangest of all is the story behind a gold ring. A patient was born without a passage connecting his mouth and stomach. Children's Hospital doctors had no sooner operated and constructed an external esophagus, than the child swallowed a ring which was removed by further delicate surgery.

Other items recovered include a doll's eye, a Roosevelt button swallowed by a loyal Republican's son, pebbles, teeth, Christmas tree decorations, medallions, whistles, tiddlywinks, jackstones, toy celluloid dogs, sardine can keys, seeds, toothpick swabs, collar buttons, rabbits' feet, toy chicken claws and countless needles, keys and pins.

The collection was put under glass when a light fingered visitor began helping himself. He found to his joy that little children have an appetite for dimes, nickels and even quarters.

War Secret Out

PORTLAND, Me., April 24 (AP)—War secrecy shrouding several blackened pits on Little Chobogue Island was lifted today.

The Navy, describing some of its Portland Harbor island installations, said the pits were used for morale-building lobster bakes for Navy personnel on leave.

Approximately 10 tons of lobsters were prepared there for 7500 men from 97 ships there during the war.

described the move as "routine" but those who were routed from their beds the order was "Come in today and answer our questions or you'll be brought in forcibly."

State troopers spent two hours searching records and files at Providence police headquarters. Among things checked were reported thefts of automobiles in Providence during the last month as well as stolen registration plates.

Troopers checked garages that store cars and shops where automobiles are painted. They want information on a 1941 or 1942 heavy model black sedan.

Information that one of the nation's biggest gambling syndicates decided that Letendre was a thorn in their side and had hired the killers came to police from reliable sources in Florida. His murder was pictured as beyond the scope of any local feud.

According to these informants, Letendre was a partner with the Chicago syndicate in two swanky gambling clubs near Miami, one of them, the Colonial Club, in Hollywood and the other, the "La Boheme" in Hollendale. The Colonial Club was said to have been in operation for 15 years.

Both establishments were known as "bust-out joints," or gambling places where the player has no chance to win.

Steers for the two places made the acquaintance of wealthy visitors and invited them for dinner and entertainment and then to the gaming rooms. There the visitors ended up by being clipped, it was explained. Letendre, who leased the gambling privileges to the Chicago syndicate, had been accused of not paying the amount of profits the syndicate considered was due. It was said he was warned to pay up. "If you don't, you'll get what O'Hare got," he was told.

Last winter the Florida authorities banned all gambling clubs, except the two lavish establishments Letendre was interested in. It is believed Letendre's death was plotted in a restaurant in a Chicago suburb and that the hired gunmen were sent to Florida for the killing. Before they arrived, however, he had left for Woonsocket, arriving less than two weeks before he was slain.

There is no doubt that the Florida information is being taken very seriously here. An agent from the FBI office in Boston arrived here to talk with local authorities and it was admitted that federal men had been asked to have their Miami and Chicago offices check on certain angles in the case.

Today Capt. Leo Caruso, head of the Woonsocket homicide squad, said he had talked with Letendre an hour before he was slain, and that Letendre appeared to be in a highly nervous condition. "I walked into the Blackstone Hotel about 11:45 Monday night intending to have a brief chat with Letendre, as I had often done before. Previously he had always been glad to see me, but this time he was very nervous and said, 'I'll see you later.'"

"I went home and at 1:15 a. m. received a call from headquarters telling me he had been shot."

Capt. Caruso said his men had checked all local sources for a possible motive, but was now convinced that it was an outside job. "There is no doubt in my mind that Letendre was threatened with death before leaving Florida and had been followed to Woonsocket by his assassins," Caruso said.

The vengeance motive was given further support when police ruled out robbery as a motive after finding nearly $1000 in the slain man's clothing.

Miss Dudley, Letendre's secretary, could remember no trouble that her boss was in recently but other associates are certain Letendre had not been the same man since returning from Florida.

His son-in-law, James P. Morley, had gone to New York on business and he had been called on to take care of things at the hotel bar at closing time. Employees said Letendre was reluctant to do so and, even on the night he was killed, had closed up hurriedly a little ahead of time. He had appeared to be worried, they said.

The only clues to the slaying so far were a playing card, the king of spades, found in the victim's beach wagon, and a .38-caliber slug imbedded in the window frame of a house near the scene.

Police Chief Edgar C. Turcotte and Det. Capt. Wilfred Messier declined to divulge the source of their information regarding the alleged feud between Letendre and the Florida syndicate. Investigators were expected, however, to leave Woonsocket today for Miami to shift the investigation. Officials said the information to Miami told of Letendre's connection with gaming casinos patronized by wealthy vacationists. Judge James E. Dooley, president of the Narragansett track, said Letendre had spent his time Saturday and again Monday at the Terrace Club instead of along the paddock path as had been his custom.

Dooley said it was his impression that Letendre was not betting too heavily on these two days, restricting himself to $25 to $50 wagers on a race.

Dooley said he had little conversation with Letendre but had heard that the Woonsocket man had told others at the club it was a little too early in the season to start plunging.

Otherwise, Letendre had been in good spirits. He left the track each of the two days after the seventh race, as was his custom.

One of Letendre's first moves on returning to Woonsocket from Florida, police were told, was to open war on mobsters he suspected of trying to operate from the Narragansett race track.

When the track opened Saturday, some New York gamblers were said to have been identified among the race-betting throngs and ordered from the track and barred from future attendance. Local friends of Letendre have commented that he seemed to have changed since returning from Florida and had appeared nervous.

"Only professional gangsters could have done this killing," declared Mayor Ernest Dupre, former political foe but personal friend of the dead sportsman. "No one locally could have been connected with this crime."

The State Police stepped into the case shortly after the mayor had been asked if he would make a request for their service. "I'll never interfere with my police and fire departments," Dupre replied. "They have the green light from me to do whatever they think necessary."

Chief Turcotte disclosed that he had asked the slain man's family to turn over correspondence received by Letendre, especially threatening letters he claimed he had received during the 1934 municipal campaign when he unsuccessfully ran for mayor.

According to Florida officials, the gambling situation there has always been an explosive one. Last fall, they reported, a midwest syndicate, controlling the gambling concessions at Gretna and the Colonial Club, made a deal with smaller establishments including the La Boheme.

Terms of the deal called for the smaller places to close, but for their promoters to receive a share of profits made by the two larger clubs. It was reported to Florida officials that some of the smaller operators were not satisfied with their cut and reopened their places. They were held up in unreported gang robberies.

Miami police said for a short time the La Boheme closed and they theorized that Letendre later moved to the nearby Hampshire House and started an exclusive game for extremely high stakes, open only to the wealthiest visitors. This action, it was believed, led his rivals to have Letendre slain.

Blackstone Monday night, in an effort to discover the identity of those who were with Letendre before he left.

Funeral services for Letendre will be held Friday at 10 a. m., with solemn high mass of requiem in Our Lady of Victory Church here. Burial will be in Most Precious Blood Cemetery, Woonsocket.

In Miami, it was reported, gamblers refused to comment on Letendre's slaying.

Although Woonsocket police were silent on the reports that a Florida mob had followed Letendre north for the purpose of killing him, acquaintances insisted his life had been threatened.

Atty. Gen. John H. Nolan said his department would keep in touch with Woonsocket police on developments and would stand ready to assist them at any time.

Since his return from Florida Letendre had taken up with his family the disposition of his property and businesses. He had told one of his relatives "I am not afraid to die," and said further, "I am afraid only of suffering."

His death interrupted plans to transfer ownership of his modern Blackstone Hotel to members of his family, a transaction, it was learned, which was to have been completed next week. Already, he had given his iron mine trap rock company to one of his daughters.

Names Missing On Birth Records

Thousands of Boston-born residents are listed in City Hall birth records without first names, the files designating them only as "male" or "female." City Registrar Michael J. Manning disclosed today.

Manning said about 4000 of approximately 17,000 babies born annually in Boston are registered without their given names through failure of parents to return verification slips to his office.

He urged parents to return these slips immediately, not only to complete city records, but to save their children from the embarrassment in later life of applying for birth certificates and finding themselves listed only on doctors' cards as "boy" or "girl."

Spectator Clothes for Town and Country By Weill

By Ruth Mugglebee
Beauty and Fashion Editor

WHEN a girl claims to be the tailored type and states an unequivocal preference for sports clothes . . . what she really means is that she's death on frilly, soubrette garb but dotes on attire that moves with the graceful sweep and freedom of her body as she rhythmically strides across the office floor . . . or the avenue.

What she expresses, actually, is the feeling of millions of American girls who have come to look upon clothes merely as props for their various activities . . . enabling them to enjoy the sun, the moon and the earth.

And since we Yankee Doodle dandies are energetic, industrious, active damsels . . . leading full and fine lives . . . we love to wear clothes that don't hamper our self-expression. For such clothes . . . Lloyd Weill of Kane and Weill is famous. He has made first cousins of comfort and smartness . . . given sports clothes a new nerve . . . glorified simplicity to serve mood and moment in dress.

Maybe it is because good-looking sports clothes have acquired such a world-wide spectator audience that they have been deservedly named "spectator" dresses . . . a sort of an eye to eye affair between wearer and gazer.

TAB-BUTTON SHOULDERS accenting a high, asymmetrical-closing neckline . . . and a girde of green, yellow and shock pink dramatize the graceful lines of this yellow crepe dress by Lloyd Weill. The stunning color contrast between dress and waist-line sash is perfect foil for the silhouette simplicity . . . provocative and subtle . . . as for instance the deep-armhole sleevelessness.

SINCE regulations on fabrics have loosened up, there is a new freedom to all the clothes. The new season has brought comfort and smartness. Spectator clothes seem to speak for the American women, their vitality and vivacity, as they can be worn at the country club and in town.

Although certain specifications still rule the use of fabrics, freedom of action can plainly be seen in the fuller skirts and roomier sleeves. I believe future seasons will show a definite trend toward even more comfortable all-round sport type clothes that can be worn for city and country alike. This will be possible when fabric rulings are abolished.

The woman who enjoys active sports, skiing and skating in wintertime, and golf in spring and summer, likes to move her body and wants her clothes to move with it in utter freedom. And even if she doesn't indulge in sports, but likes comfort and freedom of clothes movement she is always the devotee of spectator clothes.

Lloyd Weill

BARE BEAUTY for beach and country when the sun is high . . . and ideal for town coollth and comfort when worn with the jacket for the covered-up look that is the essential of clothes discretion. This camisole-topped flatterer is in pink, blue and beige poplin striped in black. Lloyd Weill trims the short-fitted black jacket with matching poplin for a costume look. The sweet and girlish but not so simple low neckline bow may be worn outside the jacket.

"SPICE and all things nice" which a soft spectator dress is made of have gone into this trim and colorful two-piecer as fresh and new as the budding greens on the trees. Of lime green crepe topped by a jacket of wool jersey in a deeper but harmonizing green . . . it is Lloyd Weill's interesting version of a perennial favorite. Worn with or without the jacket . . . but smarter with . . . it is perfect for co-ed or young careerist. The winged shoulder effect of the jacket gives it the new-trend look.

Buying Rings For Ceremony

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1—When my fiancé and I select rings for the double-ring ceremony, do we go together to buy them and does each pay for the other's ring?

2—At my wedding I am going to have my sister as maid of honor and my girl friend as bridesmaid. I have two little cousins, girls of 4 and 5, and I would like to have one as flower girl and the other as ring-bearer. Or would it be more proper to have both as flower girls and a little boy, aged 5, a cousin of the groom, as ring-bearer?

D. W.

1—It is the way of wisdom for the couple to go together to the jeweler to select their wedding rings. Each pays for the other's ring.

2—My suggestion is that you don't overdo the number of children you plan to have in your wedding party. Since you are having only one bridesmaid, you might better have only one flower girl, no ring-bearer. However, there is no rule against your having if you wish, two flower girls and a ring-bearer.

WE RARELY WRITE about face powder, feeling that . . . like marriage . . .

it's a private affair. As a rule women don't like to be told what kind of face powder to use. They think they know their own skin best . . . and so usually they resort to the trial and error . . . and mostly error . . . method with this beauty idea.

But trusting to pot luck in hitting upon the right kind of face powder is all too often a precarious procedure. Of course there are some fine powders on the market. But we can't pass up the opportunity of singing the praises about face powder that's been our pet for many months . . . formulated on an entirely new complexion benefitting principle.

True, it is expensive . . . and we mean expensive. But what woman ever stopped to compromise price with beauty results? Although you do get a large box for your money. This face powder is the only one on the market we know of containing a special and precious ingredient . . . an oil that's as precious as pearls.

Its texture defies the most extravagant praise . . . and it glides over the skin, clinging to it like the shell to the egg. The greaseless quality which is contained in this face powder is also sold under its own name and sells for a pretty penny.

For the name of this "precious ingredient"—face powder, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBERTY 4000, Monday through Saturday, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Salads Can Change Dad's Mind

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

WHEN DAD SAYS, "Salads are lady's or bunny's food—never man's food," it's time to start a reconversion program; time to serve such cold, crisp and delectable salads that he will say, "I take it back—maybe salads can come out of the rabbit hutch." These few "musts" will help work the change.

1—Salad greens when bought—must be green and fresh, not limp and dejected as thought they'd been lying around too long. When they are crisp and green, vitamin content as well as flavor are highest.

2—Before storing—salad greens must have a thorough washing under running water, and must have any bruised bits removed. Lots and lots of water makes sure sand and dirt are out.

3—The washed greens must be refrigerator stored—either in a hydrator, refrigerator bag, or covered container. A few hours under these conditions and each little chicory sprig or lettuce leaf will stand perkily by itself.

4—Watercress and parsley must have special storage attention, and here's how to do it. Wash well, then place, stems down, in a glass jar; cover and store in refrigerator. It's magic the length of time both these greens will keep garden fresh when stored this way.

SALAD BOWL

- 1 bunch watercress
- 1 bunch escarole
- 1 small head lettuce
- 2 stalks endive
- 6 to 8 radishes, thinly sliced
- 3/4 cup celery, thinly sliced
- 3/4 cup carrot, shredded or julienne
- 2 tomatoes, cut in wedges
- 1 bunch scallions, sliced or split
- 1 can anchovy fillets

Coarsely shred or break the greens into small pieces; add other ingredients and toss lightly. Serve with Roquefort French dressing or anchovy French dressing. Makes about 6 servings.

It is probable that, for some time after his separation from service, your husband's mail will continue to be delivered to his last military address. He should file his forwarding address with the postal officer at his last station. It is advisable not to have mail sent to a Separation Center or Reception Station. Spectator Clothes for Town and Country By Weill

By Ruth Mugglebee
Beauty and Fashion Editor

WHEN a girl claims to be the tailored type and states an unequivocal preference for sports clothes... what she really means is that she's death on frilly, soubrette garb but dotes on attire that moves with the graceful sweep and freedom of her body as she rhythmically strides across the office floor... or the avenue.

What she expresses, actually, is the feeling of millions of American girls who have come to look upon clothes merely as props for their various activities... enabling them to enjoy the sun, the moon and the earth.

And since we Yankee Doodle dandies are energetic, industrious, active damsels... leading full and fine lives... we love to wear clothes that don't hamper our self-expression. For such clothes... Lloyd Weill of Kane and Weill is famous. He has made first cousins of comfort and smartness... given sports clothes a new verve... glorified simplicity to serve mood and moment in dress.

Maybe it is because good-looking sports clothes have acquired such a world-wide spectator audience that they have been deservedly named "spectator" dresses... a sort of an eye to eye affair between wearer and gazer.

← BARE BEAUTY for beach and country when the sun is high... and ideal for town coolth and comfort when worn with the jacket for the covered-up look that is the essential of clothes discretion. This camisole-topped flatterer is in pink, blue and beige poplin striped in black. Lloyd Weill trims the short-fitted black jacket with matching poplin for a costume look. The sweet and girlish but not so simple low neckline bow may be worn outside the jacket.

← TAB-BUTTON SHOULDERS accenting a high, asymmetrical-closing neckline... and a giraffe of green, yellow and shocking pink dramatize the graceful lines of this yellow crepe dress by Lloyd Weill. The stunning color contrast between dress and waistline sash is perfect foil for the silhouette simplicity... provocative and subtle... as for instance the deep-armhole sleevelessness.

SINCE regulations on fabrics have loosened up, there is a new freedom to all the clothes. The new season has brought comfort and smartness. Spectator clothes seem to speak for the American women, their vitality and vivacity, as they can be worn at the country club and in town.

Although certain specifications still rule the use of fabrics, freedom of action can plainly be seen in the fuller skirts and roomier sleeves. I believe future seasons will show a definite trend toward even more comfortable all-round sport type clothes that can be worn for city and country alike. This will be possible when fabric rulings are abolished.

The woman who enjoys active sports, skiing and skating in wintertime, and golf in spring and summer, likes to move her body and wants her clothes to move with it in utter freedom. And even if she doesn't indulge in sports, but likes comfort and freedom of clothes movement she is always the devotee of spectator clothes.

Lloyd Weill

"SPICE and all things nice" which a soft spectator dress is made of have gone into this trim and colorful two-piecer as fresh and new as the budding greens on the trees. Of lime green crepe topped by a jacket of wool jersey in a deeper but harmonizing green... it is Lloyd Weill's interesting version of a perennial favorite. Worn with or without the jacket... but smarter with... it is perfect for co-ed or young careerist. The winged shoulder effect of the jacket gives it the new-trend look.

Buying Rings For Ceremony

DEAR MRS. BECKMAN:
1—When my fiancé and I select rings for the double-ring ceremony, do we go together to buy them and does each pay for the other's ring?

2—At my wedding I am going to have my sister as maid of honor and my girl friend as bridesmaid. I have two little cousins, girls of 4 and 5, and I would like to have one as flower girl and the other as ring-bearer. Or would it be more proper to have both as flower girls and a little boy, aged 5, a cousin of the groom, as ring-bearer? D. W.

1—It is the way of wisdom for the couple to go together to the jeweler to select their wedding rings. Each pays for the other's ring.

2—My suggestion is that you don't overdo the number of children you plan to have in your wedding party. Since you are having only one bridesmaid, you might better have only one flower girl, no ring-bearer. However, there is no rule against your having if you wish, two flower girls and a ring-bearer.

JUSTICE FOR VETERANS

EDITH NOURSE ROGERS, our beloved Massachusetts Representative, has called for prompt hearings in Congress on a bill to remove the inequitable and incredible provision of the Veterans' Compensation Act which limits the pay of hospitalized war veterans to as little as TWENTY-CENTS A DAY.

Mrs. Rogers is no stranger to this shameful situation.

She has sponsored corrective legislation on many occasions over a long period of years.

She has repeatedly, and frequently with-out assistance, charged Congress with gross injustice to thousands of sick and disabled veterans in persisting in a penurious policy which virtually deprives them of all income when they enter Government hospitals.

But not until the Hearst newspapers called national attention to this outrageous policy and aroused national indignation against it was the strange indifference and complacency of Congress disturbed.

It is the war veteran without dependents who is the chief victim of this discriminatory policy.

If his disability is the direct result of service in the armed forces, the maximum amount of his compensation while he is a hospital patient is TWENTY DOLLARS A MONTH.

If he is unable to trace his disability to active service, his maximum compensation while in the hospital is EIGHT DOLLARS A MONTH.

As Mrs. Rogers says, not only are there THOUSANDS of veterans in these categories but "MANY OF THEM ARE AMPUTEES, MANY ARE PARALYZED OR BLIND, AND MANY ARE SUFFERING FROM TRAGIC AILMENTS CONTRACTED IN THE SERVICE OF THEIR COUNTRY."

The very fact of their being without dependents, as Mrs. Rogers points out, attests their extreme YOUTH at the time of entering the service.

Many of them were mere schoolboys when they went to war. More of them had failed to reach the age of self-support—being wholly dependent upon postwar employment and earnings for the ultimate establishment of homes and families.

"How can any of these veterans, with their compensation cut to eight dollars a month or 20 dollars a month at the most, expect to re-establish themselves in their communities when their health has been restored sufficiently for them to leave their hospital beds?" asks Mrs. Rogers.

This pittance hardly keeps them in cigars while they are in the hospital.

IT LEAVES THEM WITHOUT SO MUCH AS "THE FIRST MONTH'S RENT WHEN THEY LEAVE THE HOSPITAL," as Mrs. Rogers says.

"This discrimination against youths and men who are bearing their sufferings alone has continued for years," she observes, "and for many years I have fought bitterly against the injustice . . ."

"It is time Congress ends this injustice."

THE CONGRESS should quit paying mere LIP SERVICE to the rights and welfare of American war veterans.

It has moved with alacrity to provide FEDERAL SUBSIDIES TO POWERFUL POLITICAL INTERESTS, in the serving of its own partisan advantage.

It is even now preparing to LEND BILLIONS OF DOLLARS TO FOREIGN GOVERNMENTS, knowing full well the improbability and even impossibility of repayment.

Why is the only economy practiced by Congress the unjust and shameful economy practiced against fighting men who are shattered in health and broken in body?

Why does Congress desert the nation's deserving defenders?

ABOVE IS QUOTED in response to a request for the origin of the title of the film "Arise, My Love" in which Ray Milland, Claudette Colbert and Walter Abel were featured. As will be noted, the same passage was the inspiration for the title of John Van Druten's play, "The Voice of the Turtle . . . Am asked what the "S" stands for in the name of President Harry S. Truman. The chief executive explains its presence by saying it is the first initial of the names of his paternal and maternal grandfathers which were Shipp and Solomon. That is certainly a quaint system of naming. Now that Mr. Truman has become President it seems he should expand his middle initial so both his grandparents are fully honored. That is, his name should be Harry Solomon Shipp Truman.

SAYS SHE: "That provocative query: 'How are you going to look in a bathing suit?' seems to be considered as if directed at females exclusively," writes a young woman of Boston. "It would be a good idea if many men asked themselves this question. Then, perhaps, our beaches would have fewer unsightly masses of masculine flesh waddling around. They are very frugal and continue to be careful of their money even when very rich. John D. Rockefeller was Cancer born. Virgo, Aug. 24-Sept. 23) and Libra (Sept. 24-Oct. 24) born people are of the "get-rich-quick" type. Not only do they get rich fast but being very extravagant they get poor just as quickly. FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1944, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

MY INQUIRIES into the careers of those who run unions of the American Federation of Labor have turned up many stories of superb audacity.

There was Willie Bioff, who graduated to a position of supremacy in the motion picture industry and the social peacage in Hollywood.

George Scallie became president of the Building Service Employees and, when he was denounced in print, received a letter of lavish personal sympathy from Joseph Padway, then, and still, general counsel of the American Federation of Labor, and for years the friend of Franklin D. Roosevelt and his counsellor on labor matters.

Westbrook Pegler

JOE FAY, high in the command of the Operating Engineers, and James Bove, of the Common Laborers, were convicted within the last year of fabulous shake-downs practiced on the toilers and contractors, both on enormous public jobs.

There was a Cincinnati cop, Jack Dempsey by name, who became treasurer of the Iron Workers after his dismissal for conniving with bootleggers and was not required to pay a fine of $1000 imposed by the Federal Court until more than a decade later when these essays called attention to his delinquency.

EARLY IN the game, William Green, the President of the A. F. of L., attacked me for exposing the first batch of audacious unioners, insisting, though he knew better, that they were exceptional in his Federation.

I then promised to expose a hundred of them. This score was exceeded long ago. They included a convicted burglar in the executive body of John L. Lewis' United Mine workers and a whining old scoundrel in the national controlling group of the Electricians' Union who had been sent to Sing Sing for robbing the Widows' and Orphans' Fund, paroled by Al Smith as an act of pity and restored immediately to a position of financial trust which he had previously betrayed.

These investigations have become a career in themselves, and I have often marvelled, in an exasperated and, at certain moments, forlorn way at the gall of some of the subjects and their security in their positions, notwithstanding flat, unchallenged proof of their iniquity.

ON THE CONTRARY, in several conspicuous cases Green threw the prestige of his office to the side of accused traitors to the union movement and betrayers of voiceless, helpless, oppressed and frightened workers.

He sat at the same executive board with George Browne, Bioff's accomplice, on the executive council of the A. F. of L., long after Browne's character had been thoroughly exposed.

In New York, long after Joe Fay had been publicly posted as a crook, Green publicly entertained him as a distinguished union executive at a party given in honor of a naive English unionist.

And, in Chicago, he paid flowery tribute to Fay's entire gang at a formal event in honor of William E. Maloney, the president of the Operating Engineers.

As I say, this has been fascinating work and the more enjoyable because from the beginning I have the field almost entirely to myself.

I don't know why this has been so. In the beginning, to be sure, it did seem a risky business, because of the possibility of error and the almost reverent public regard for unionism.

Yet it was shown in court that Browne, Bioff and Scallie were actually the agents of the remnants of an old Chicago mob and that these unions were mob rackets.

AS TIME PASSED and convictions mounted, the A. F. of L. ceased to insist that the crook was exceptional in unionism and simply ignored the disgrace and with success, too.

Now it is a fact easily accepted by the public that the A. F. of L. has been corrupt in parts and yet the A. F. of L. never was more powerful and prosperous.

So I just go my way. Some of the original zest is gone and I neglect some leads with a reflection that the truth has lost its power to shock and that the people either don't care or feel that there is no use bothering about a condition that has become standard in the American way.

But I still take an occasional tour into the realm of unionism and still discover, now and then, some interesting characters.

Ben Pross of New York is such a one, whose story and some aspects of whose family background will begin to run here tomorrow.

HOLLYWOOD, April 24—The new heartthrob, Mark Stevens, has to undergo another operation, but when he is up and around again, he reports to Otto Preminger at 20th for the lead opposite Gene Tierney in "Methinks the Lady."

Mark plays the psychiatrist husband who becomes involved in a murder with his neurotic wife. This Guy Endore thriller has the same eerie dramatics that made "Laura," guided by Preminger, such a swell picture.

As for Mark—right now he is a pretty sick boy. He had a spinal operation a month ago that was unusually severe because he is allergic to anaesthetics. He lost 20 pounds in two weeks. Now he's faced with another surgery—but they hope this will not be as serious.

Too bad all this had to happen just as Mark was getting off to a swell start in "From This Day Forward" and "The Dark Corner." Preminger both produces and directs "Methinks the Lady."

20TH IS WAY OUT in front in the bidding for Lily Dache's book, "Talking Through My Hat." Kinda cute title for a lady who has made her mark in millinery, if you can call the prices she gets for hats plain "millinery." What makes it such good screen material is that the autobiography has a love story as interesting as Lily's famous career story. So far she has no ideas about the actress she would like to play her on the screen. But it should not be hard to talk any of the glamor girls into a role where the hats are a cinch to be "by Dache."

MARIE WILSON, who has appeared in Ken Murray's "Blackouts" so long her heels are growing to the floorboards, called all excited about her husband's new job. Allan, full name Allan Nixon, gets the male lead in Mae West's new show, "Ring Twice, Please," which opens in San Francisco soon and then hits Los Angeles before going on to Broadway this fall. Nixon is a good looking boy—just out of the Army after four years and he's being movie-scouted already.

THE NEW YORK PRESS, which has had its nose out of joint in the past with Laurence Olivier because of his lack of co-operation, may be in for a pleasant surprise when he arrives with the Old Vic company April 27. Olivier has softened up since the war in his relations and attitude toward people and he is definitely eager to do anything he can to win good will for his troupe. A tip from London reveals that both Larry and Vivien Leigh will be peppy and willing to talk—a welcome novelty where they are concerned. Cheerio.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Faith Dorn, the belle one time rumored engaged to Howard Hughes, has been married since Jan. 28 to orchestra leader Ted Stauffer. They were married at the San Diego County Courthouse—and the reason the news didn't get out is because Faith took out the license under her real name, Faith Domergue. Her most recent picture is "The Young Widow," starring Jane Russell, Hughes' stellar protege.

THE FOLLOWING statement was issued yesterday by Warner Brothers Studio in reference to a "lead" carried in this column that Errol Flynn would co-star with Tamara Toumanova in "The King's Highway": "Errol Flynn's contract is for his services to be performed exclusively for Warner Brothers. Errol Flynn, himself, says he is very happy about his present Warner schedule. His next film is 'Cry Wolf,' opposite Barbara Stanwick, which begins production within a few days. Flynn's lawyer, agent and business manager have no knowledge of any commitment for 'The King's Highway'."

HOLLYWOOD IN SHORTS: Gloria Vanderbilt Stokowski need no longer be in a tizz that she will be the target of comedians' jokes on Mother's Day. Top networks will blue pencil all references to her—even if anyone has the bad taste to try; fine thing—but Toots Shor is so hurt because Mayor O'Dwyer of New York will fly out to be the godfather at the christening of the expected Pat O'Brien baby that the O'Briens have had to invite Toots to be godmother; Mary MacArthur, the 72-year-old daughter of Helen Hayes and Charles MacArthur, follows in her mother's footsteps via the Bucks County playhouse this summer; Martha Raye has signed no deal to appear in pictures with Charlie Chaplin, as reported. She's filling night club engagements to the tune of $7000 weekly and says that's good enough for her.

FREDDY MARTIN opens his new record store at the Ambassador Hotel May 15 with a regular Hollywood premiere; the Chester Laucks (he's Lum of "Lum and Abner") are camping out in their new Brentwood home while it's being remodeled from Mediterranean to Colonial—only the swimming pool retaining its original nationality; late Hollywood; Alexis Smith and Craig Stevens will vacation in the Canadian Rockies this summer; Billy Bakewell took his mother to that cute little place, Saddle and Sirolo, which is beginning to get a big play from the movie crowd; the minute Clifton Webb finishes "The Razor's Edge" he heads to New York to start rehearsals on Noel Coward's "Present Laughter"; Bill Chalkin, 20th press agent, leaves the praisery department to become assistant to Bill Burton in the agency business. That's all today. See you tomorrow—courtesy of Warner Brothers.

THE LATE JACK LETENDRE was one of the few consistently heavy bettors of the New England tracks...

His routine wager was $1000 to win on one horse in the race, and an invariable $200 "saver" on some other nag in the same contest... On just a "saver" wager, the slain Wamsicket peddler had won more than $2900 Monday... The horseman who had given him the information which prompted Letendre to make this particular bet was mourning more than the loss of a friend at Narragansett—where the flags were half-staffed in memory of the ride victim yesterday... It was Letendre's custom to come around the day after a winning play and share his coup with a horseman responsible for the tip.

LETENDRE'S COURAGE, incidentally, was unquestioned... Should the investigating trail extend back as far as the slain man's youth, it will develop some interesting highlights in an adventure-filled career... In Letendre's salad days he was familiar with the workings of a nationally famous Boston gang of "confidence" men... His interest in horse-racing undoubtedly sprung from those early beginnings.

THIS GANG worked in Florida and in Cuba—Havana being the scene of their more daring operations... The racket was the notorious "pay-off"... In the "pay-off," the gang sets up a wire-room, or pool-room... The layout is complete, with cashier's cage for bettors, a phony telegraph operator who clicks his "bug" (instrument) convincingly while pretending to be in touch with the various racetracks... The basic trick is that the sucker is "fast-picked"... He is permitted to win several small bets, and finally "wins" a huge one... But he doesn't even "cash in."

THE "MANAGER" of the joint takes a sudden interest in the sucker's financial background... "Are you sure, Mr. X," the sucker is asked, "that we would be able to win from you as much money as you have won from us?" The victim protests volubly that he can of course match the sum which is supposedly being held to his credit in the phony horse-room... His assurances never are sufficient to satisfy the gang.

THE UPSHOT of it all or the "pay-off" (so-called) comes when the sucker consents to have one of the mob accompany him to his home-town bank while he proves his financial stability by withdrawing a sum equal to the amount being "held" to his credit... With the love-light of larceny in his gleaming eyes, the sucker hurries back to the gang's headquarters... The "business" is going as usual, and the atmosphere is so cleverly feigned that the place seems as austere and "respectable" as Bradley's in Palm Beach used to be.

The sucker passes over his bankroll to the member of the gang who accompanied him to his bank... A "slight delay" develops while everything is "checked"; the sucker is told to come back tomorrow and get both his money and "he winnings being 'held' for him... When he returns the next day, the oriental carpets have been rolled up, and the paraphernalia has been packed up and moved to another place.

THE "PAY-OFF" has become so familiar of recent years, that only an occasional sucker is snared, and the lads who once plied this racket so successfully are out of action, or interested in more prosaic forms.

JACK LETENDRE of Woonsocket got his eye-teeth sharpened in the "easy money" business by knowing; what was going on where there was "action"...

himself all his life, but the solid strength of his income came from ownership of a "gravel-bank"—a seemingly inexhaustible pile of sand ideal for mixing concrete and cement located between Boston and Providence... He got $15,000 a year, too, from Narragansett Park.

IN THE ORIGINAL O'Hara promotion, Letendre was a tower of strength because of his knowledge of Rhode Island politics and politicians... But his penchant for betting high, wide and handsome on the speed of race-horses frequently placed him in financial difficulties... At one time, not too long ago he asked the directors of Narragansett Park to okay the payment to him of $15,000 a year's salary... Like all high-rollers in gambling, Letendre had his bad months and good ones... Since 1944, things were bright enough financially... His gambling casino in Florida in the winter of 1945 was a real money-maker... Always a big "money-getter," Letendre picked up enemies all along the line... In the involved financial and stock set-ups of race-track promotions in this section, the seed of trouble is sowed occasionally at the very start... Police would seem to have about the same chance to solve this ride-murder as the Chicago cops enjoyed when probing the death of Eddie O'Hare (under almost identical circumstances)... O'Hare was gunned to death in 1939... His murder is still unsolved.

Broadway

NEW YORK, April 24—Curly Harris is my choice for the typical Young Man of Broadway. He knows the excitement of the street—the beautiful girls, the betting men, the once-in-a-lifetime beauties, the chisels, the millionaires, the grifters and the law. He addresses them as they would have it, naturally: by first names. Curly is an "ex" man.

Ex-husband to a glamorous play girl, Ex-newsman, Ex-screen writer. Now he hangs his hat in Metro's New York press department and he's the bosses' choice to escort the Van Johnsons and Greer Garsons and Judy Garlands around Manhattan when they come to town. The stars like Curly. He steers them into fun and laughter and excitement.

Several months ago Curly wrote a good piece about the fabulous gambler, Nick the Greek, for one of the monthly magazines. He happened to see something like 18,000 words in a neat package and didn't miss a trick. As Curly put it: "It was pretty long—I had to miss nine dates to finish it." Damon Runyon and Walter Winchell, both realistic geniuses, tipped their hats to Curly for his well-done biography of a character whose exclusiveness has been a bane to would-be profilers for many years.

Curly was able to do it for the very simple reason that Nick likes him. "He's my kind of people," Nick says about him not long ago. "His word is gold. I know he would put my talk down like I say it—not with a double-cross."

WASHINGTON, April 24—Apparently the Senate likes Florida Pauleys better than California Pauleys.

After throwing out the nomination of Ed Pauley of California for Undersecretary of the Navy, it turned right around and confirmed the nomination of William D. Pauley of Florida as Ambassador to Brazil.

Maybe the Florida Pauleys are juicier.

ALL THE first class Senators come up for re-election this year. Only the second and third class ones continue to hang on without a fight.

This does not mean that the holdovers are of inferior material, however. It is just the way they are classified.

One-third of the Senate is elected every two years. So, for purposes of electoral identification, they are classified as first class, second class, third class. Bilbo of Mississippi is a first class Senator—Ha, Ha.

SPEAKING OF BILBO, one of the Senate elevator boys got off a baffling remark the other day. A visitor noted the boy was wearing a button, "Re-Elect Bilbo" and asked why he was for the Mississippi.

"Because," replied the boy, absolutely stony-faced, "I'm from Texas."

A SHORT time ago I revealed that Mayor O'Dwyer of New York had received a letter from a Frenchwoman requesting him to get her an American husband.

In a sort of prospectus setting forth her charms she said she was nice to look at "and not too much ample."

Apparently, the lady's self-description proved alluring because Mayor O'Dwyer has just received a letter from a man in Bremerton, Wash., who signs himself "Hugh (Available) Smith." Mr. Available Smith says:

"I am very much interested in the appeal of your French lady. I have sought a wife for a quarter of a century but no girl has yet looked my way."

"What do women want, Mr. Mayor? I once won a physical culture contest. I have a great physique and I am never sick. Also, I do not smoke, drink, or gamble. Who more could any woman want?"

Certainly sounds tempting, doesn't he?

HAD AN IDEA for a piece which didn't work out very well. Thought we would call up a bunch of Congressmen and ask how they intended to put in the 11-day vacation now in progress.

Well, all we got was the darndest collection of stuffed-shirt answers. Almost without exception the Congressmen said they would put in the time working for the betterment of humanity, giving their all in noble self-sacrifice. To hear some of their talk you would think they were going to spend their vacation on funeral pyres.

The only one we contacted who didn't give us a pious run-around was Rep. Jimmy Morrison of Louisiana. Said the irrepressible James:

"I am going home to New Orleans to address a laundrymen's convention. This is the first time they've had a Congressman address them and it is a wonderful opportunity for me. I am going to complain like the devil about starch in my shirts and I hope to drive them nuts."

"Then I am going to Shreveport to address the State Bar convention. This is a gang of lawyers. Then I am going to Gonzales to a strawberry festival, where I will pick both the queen of the fair and the best crate of strawberries. It will be quite a responsibility."

I AM only printing this to pacify Mr. Warren Francis of Los Angeles. Mr. Francis spends most of his time searching for typographical errors in government releases and becomes very irked when I do not print them. In fact, he has become downright truculent, as witness his latest communication:

"Dear Sir: This is absolutely the last time I call your attention to something worth while."

"Enclosed is a release from the National Labor Relations Board concerning the 'United Steel and Wine Co.'"

Well, people take iron and wine, don't they?

Crackdown on U. S. Troops in Europe

FRANKFURT, Germany, April 24 (AP)—Gen. Joseph T. McNarney today ordered a disciplinary crackdown on all American troops in Europe. In orders to unit commanders, Gen. McNarney said, in part:

"Due to rapid demobilization and frequent changes of station of units and assignments of enlisted men and officers, firm ties of unit pride have been weakened.

"Discipline in certain localities and commands in this theater has deteriorated to a point of discrediting the fine performance of our troops in general.

"Indications of this state can be found in:

"A—Participation in black market activities and in indulgence in drunkenness.

"B—A high absent without leave rate and an excessive incidence of other disciplinary infractions.

"C—High automobile accident rate.

"D—Excessive venereal disease rate.

"E—General lack of smartness in appearance and conscientious observance of military courtesy.

"F—Complaining attitude toward constituted military authority and those duties essential to maintain high standards of soldierly efficiency.

"Officer replacements and newly enlisted and newly inducted soldiers are being received in large numbers and if low standards of discipline and performance of duty exist in any organization, they will extend to new arrivals."

LONDON, April 24 (AP)—Britain today launched the social experiment of planning the building of entire towns of 50,000 population.

A "new towns bill" made public today would set aside $200,000,000 as a start toward building a still undetermined number of communities at an estimated cost of $76,000,000 each.

Slaughter Odors Bring Curley Edict

Officials of the Brighton abattoir today assured Mayor Curley they will do their best to eliminate the foul odors which have brought complaints from residents living near the slaughtering plant.

plant, said it has been difficult to find the necessary equipment, but that by fall the equipment will be installed and the odors will be gone. "By fall," the Mayor said, "the perfumes of Araby will emanate from the abattoir or else the city will be forced to close the place."

Home Garden Forum

By FOSTER H. WEISS
(Head of the Vegetable Gardening Dept., Norfolk County Agricultural School)

Q—How much peat moss should be added to soil to lighten it?

A—A good rule to follow is to use about 1-3 peat moss to 2-3 soil. Always keep in mind that peat moss may be strongly acid, so lime should also be added.

Q—How should strawberry plants be set?

A—Strawberry plants should be set so that the crowns are above the surface. Strawberry roots must be spread out well when set if you expect the plants to grow well.

Q—Can strawberries be harvested from plants set this year?

A—No. Although the new plants will send up a blossom cluster, it must be picked off. Otherwise the plant will not produce runners.

Q—Is it possible to transplant wild lupines? We have never had good luck.

A—Yes. If handled carefully. Keep in mind that this plant has a long tap root which must not be broken. Also it will not grow well unless the soil is acid.

Q—Which root vegetable has more food value, beets or carrots?

A—Carrots are much higher in food value than beets. In the case of beets, the tops are the most valuable.

Q—How can I tell if apple blossoms have been damaged by frost?

A—This is not always easy. Cut a few blossoms so as to get a cross-section. If the pistil is black, the chances are they have been frozen.

$125,000 of Jap Cache Recovered

TOKYO, April 24 (AP)—More than $125,000 in platinum and silver has been recovered from the cache of precious metals the Japanese dumped into Tokyo bay last July.

Li H. P. Maul, commander of the salvage ship Bolser, said divers had located ingots over a much larger area than at first reported.

The underwater hoard was located by Lt. E. V. Nelson of the 32d Military Government Company a month ago. The Japanese thought the dunked metal was worth $2,000,000,000, a figure greatly discounted by American sources.

Death Trail Cline Guilty as Forger

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24 (AP)—White-haired Alfred Leonard Cline, whose cross-country trail was marked by deaths and cremations of elderly women, stands convicted today on nine charges of forgery.

The 56-year-old ex-convict and former choir leader was convicted by a jury of five men and seven women of forging papers involving the estates of two of the women who died in his company.

Both were wives of the mysterious, gospel-quoting Cline, who is charged in Dallas, Tex., with murder and in the deaths of at least four women. The forgeries involved the $23,000 estate of Mrs. Eva Krebs Cline, wealthy Chicago widow, and of the former Mrs. Elizabeth Hunt Lewis.

Cline will be sentenced Saturday. The maximum penalty is 126 years in prison—14 years on each count.

U. S. Housewives Organize Here

"Housewives of America," an organization to exert pressure against the rising cost of living, was formed today at a meeting of various women's groups.

The assembly met at the home of Mrs. Walter E. Dewey of West Cedar st. Clubwomen representatives of church groups, and many prominent in civic affairs were present.

The group plans to enlist thousands of housewives in favor of price controls, and to urge more American participation in feeding famine-threatened Europe.

Compromise Near In Manchurian War

CHUNGKING, April 24 (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek postponed today the convocation of the national assembly as the Communists had demanded, prompting widespread belief that a compromise was near in the Manchurian civil war and other internal problems.

Gen. Marshall, special U. S. envoy, is exerting heavy pressure on both the generalissimo and Gen. Chou En-Lai, the Communist negotiator, for a settlement.

Set 'Em AHEAD

Daylight Saving Time goes into effect in Massachusetts Sunday at 2 a. m., and the perennial question arises—are clocks set ahead or back an hour?

The answer is to put them AHEAD one hour. And it's just as well to attend to the operation Saturday night.

School Defies Petrillo Threat

TOLEDO, O., April 24 (AP)—E. H. Bowser, superintendent of Toledo public schools, said today he had refused to give James Caesar Petrillo, head of the American Federation of Musicians Union, the names of band-playing students to be graduated this year.

Clarence R. Ball, public school music supervisor, said Petrillo told him he hoped to strengthen his union by forming civic bands in cities of more than 50,000 population, and that upon being refused the names, threatened to have him fired and said he would organize a band anyway.

Bowser backed Ball's action and advised Petrillo he "would not permit him to organize Toledo high school students into a band or anything else while I am superintendent."

Nylons for 12 Jurors Fail To Win Plea for Mistrial

DETROIT, April 24 (AP)—Defense Atty. William G. Fitzpatrick today asked a mistrial in the case of Frank Lobaido on grounds that he had heard that "the police department had given each juror a pair of nylon stockings."

Fitzpatrick also asked to question each of the 10 women and four men jurors. Lobaido is on trial on charges that he raped and slashed Rosalie Giganti, age 7. Recorder's Judge Gerald W. Groat denied a mistrial and refused to let Fitzpatrick question the jurors.

Judge Groat had heard the rumor. "I invested," he told Fitzpatrick. "The nylons were not given the jms. Each juror paid for his or a pair of nylons, obtained by Alice Matron Mabel Dreyer."

He explained the police matron attending 12 jurors had learned where nylons could be purchased and merelassed along the information.

Truman to Attend Stone Funeral

WITH PRESIDENT IN THE CHESAPEAKE, April 24 (AP)—President Truman will interrupt his vacation tomorrow long enough to attend funeral services in Washington for Chief Justice Harlan F. Stone.

Mr. Truman's aides said he would disembark from the Presidential yacht Williamsburg shortly after 11 a. m. and drive to Washington with staff members. He will return to Quantico, Va., and board the yacht again for a cruise continuing through Sunday.

Mr. Truman will be accompanied by Adm. William D. Leahy, his chief of staff; Capt. Clark Clifford, Naval aide, and Brig. Gen. Harry M. Vaughn, military aide.

The President will stop off at the White House en route to Washington Cathedral to pick up Mrs. Truman and their daughter, Margaret.

Cheney's Killer Powder

For Roaches and Waterbugs

CHENEY'S powder is a time tested safe and proven killer THAT IS NON-POISONOUS TO HUMANS, a famous formula that still leads the field. DDT's, 100's and other highly touted powders still have to bow to the efficiency and safety of Cheney's powder.

Roaches often come into the home on market baskets or delivered packages. They are unclean insects which should not be tolerated in a well kept home.

They walk forth from sink and sewer pipes over your pantry shelves and food, carrying germs. Kill them all the safe way.

Carrigan Voted Into Baseball's Hall of Fame

NEW YORK, April 24 (AP)—Eleven former big league stars were voted into the Cooperstown Hall of Fame at a meeting of the special committee on old-timers.

Bill Carrigan were admitted after a meeting held in the offices of the New York Yankees.

Six pitchers and five other players, including the famous Tinkers-to-Evers-to-Chance combination of the Chicago Cubs were admitted after a meeting held in the offices of the New York Yankees.

The seven-man committee was appointed by the late commissioner K. M. Landis to select early day stars who might not be able to pick up enough votes from the present day writers who have elected most of the members. In that manner 10 men were added to the Hall of Fame last year although the baseball writers were unable to agree on one choice and had not made a selection since they approved Rogers Hornsby in 1942.

Ed Walsh of the Chicago White Sox, Clark Griffith of the New York Highlanders and Washington, Jack Chesbro of the Highlanders, Rube Waddell and Eddie Plank of the Philadelphia Athletics and Joe (Iron Man) McGinnity of the New York Giants were the hurlers added to the list of the game's "immortals."

Left Fielder Jesse Burkett of the Red Sox, Cleveland and the Browns in the early days of the century and Tom McCarthy, who patrolled right field for the St. Louis Browns' four-time winners from 1885 through 1888 were the outfielders named.

Umpires selected were: Thomas Connolly, William Dineen, Robert Emslie, William Evans, John Gaffney, Timothy John Lynch, Thomas Lynch, "Silk" O'Loughlin and Jack Sheridan.

Managers named were: William Carrigan, Edward Hanlon, Miller J. Huggins, Frank Seely and John M. Ward.

Carrigan Silent on New Diamond Honors
LEWISTON, Me., April 24 (AP)—William F. Carrigan, who was a chatterbox catcher and was called "Wild Bill" in the days when he led the Boston Red Sox to their last two world championships in 1915 and 1916, had little to say today about his election to baseball's new "honor roll."

"Well, well, that's fine, thank you, I've got to go to the bank now," said Carrigan, now a 62-year-old financier and real estate operator.

Carrigan is rarely in the public eye now though before the war he was an outspoken critic of the city's administration and guardian of the public money as a member of the city municipal board of finance.

Evers Wants Rabbit Named to Fame Hall

ALBANY, N. Y., April 24 (AP)—The middle man of the renowned Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance combination is "mighty glad we all made it together," but the old Crab has a mild dissent on the election of the "newest members to baseball's Hall of Fame."

Johnny Evers, 64, and partly paralyzed, said today he "still thinks" Frank Chance "should have been chosen long ago" for the game's shrine at Cooperstown.

And, "I'd like to see them get Rabbit Maranville in there soon," he added. But don't get him wrong.

"I'm tickled to pieces that they selected me. I feel fine... great. That leaves me with no more worries," he said from the bed where he has spent most of the last five years since he suffered a stroke.

"I wish Chance were alive to feel as happy about it as I do. I wish he were here," he mused.

"I'm glad for Tinker, too. I'm mighty glad we all made it together."

Joe Tinker was the shortstop, Chance the manager and first baseman and Evers the second baseman of the great Chicago Cub teams of the 1906-1912 era. Their proficiency in reeling off double plays made the box-score report of "Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance" a household byword.

Chance died in 1924. Tinker, who survived a grave illness a few years ago, now resides in Florida.

Evers, now weighing more than 220 pounds, stayed awake long past his bedtime last night to hear an Associated Press account of his Hall of Fame election.

Southworth Lauds Head's 'No-Hitter'

By BILL GRIMES
NEW YORK, April 24—"Although I haven't seen too many "no-hit-no-run games," confessed Billy Southworth, after Ed Head, the Dodger hurler, had humiliated his Braves to become the latest entry to baseball's hall of fame, "I'd say that no pitcher was ever more deserving than Head."

"What did he have, Billy?" we asked.

"Control," replied Southworth. "As I saw it from the press coop, there were only two balls well tagged by the Braves," we said. "The one that Tommy Holmes hit in the 7th which sent Lennie Furillo back to the right centerfield wall and the line drive, which Pete Reiser speared off Whitey Wietelmann in the eighth."

"Whitey's bid was the only ball labelled 'hit,' was Southworth's comeback. "Holmes was too high, and therefore just a can of corn."

For some time to come, Head will be called upon to take bows for turning back the Braves without a hit or run. He gave a grand exhibition of pitching. But do not overlook Ferrel Anderson, the rookie catcher. He couldn't have called for many bad pitches.

Anytime he comes up with a no-hit-no-run game, a pitcher is lauded to the skies. But the catcher, who calls for the pitches, seldom gets any mention for the part he plays in the act.

Along about 8:30 yesterday morning, Head received a telegram from Louisiana that Mrs. Head had given birth to a son. So, before he reached Ebbets Field, Head purchased a box of cigars, which he passed out to his clubmates. Then, he went out and gave the Braves a treat.

For a run of the mill pitcher, Head was exceptionally cool until the 9th inning. He had been under pressure from the 7th round. But, when Reiser speared Wietelmann's line drive for the third out in the 8th, Head must have seen the hand writing on the wall.

While the Dodgers were going out in order in the last of the 8th, Head probably was thinking "will some one 'bloop' one on me or will I be the first National League hurler to pitch a no-hitter since Clyde Shoun in 1944."

Southworth sent up "Chuck" Workman, who hits exceptionally well at Ebbets Field, to bat for Mort Cooper in the last frame. Head tried to make "Chuck" hit a bad pitch and wound up by walking him. Then Connie Ryan went down swinging, and Ferrel Anderson's snap throw to Ed Stevens picked Workman off first base for a double play. Johnny Hopp wound up the game by grounding out to Bill Herman.

The Braves opened a two-day two-game series with the Giants this afternoon at the Polo Grounds.

Jimmy Wallace, the Braves' left hand pitcher, was taken sick just before the game and Manager Southworth ordered him returned to the hotel. His illness was diagnosed as stomach influenza.

The Braves took a look at Steve Andreoli, a 16-year-old infielder from the Grover Cleveland High School, Queens.

He was recommended to scout Bill Maney by an uncle. The youngster looked very impressive particularly at the bat.

Fishing Ban Eased; Stays in 4 Counties

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

According to the Mass. Division of Fisheries and Game, Governor Tobin has lifted the ban on inland fishing in all counties of the state, except Plymouth, Bristol, Barnstable, and Dukes, where the woods will remain closed, as well as . . . There is always the chance that a dry spell will bring a return of fire hazards, so sportsmen are urged to take every precaution along streams and fields. Report any blaze or suspicious characters immediately.

"It is to the advantage of every angler to help prevent forest fires," declared Chief Conservation Officer Lloyd Walker. "The smoldering areas create potash which seeps into streams, killing fish . . . Unless there is a decidedly heavy precipitation soon, the season may be interrupted again. It will be determined later if there will be an extension to make up for the lost period."

But if you want to go fishing, don't despair. A stretch of warm weather will improve the salt water sport, and perhaps bring the strippers out of hibernation . . . Quincy Bay is apparently teeming with large codfish and flounders, although recent windy and cool days have prevented many from wetting lines here . . . George Elliot, who operates Harvey's boat station, at Hough's Neck, has 28 of his craft in the water, with 30 more under construction. Bait and tackle are available, as well.

Al Tripp launched many of his boats last week-end, at Manomet Point, below Plymouth, but high winds kept business at a minimum. Only one party braved the gales, returning quickly with only one cod.

CLUB CHATTER: Next meeting of the Needham Sportsman's Club takes place tomorrow evening, where members are expected to spin some tall tales of opening day . . . Fishing at the club's trout ponds has been good, on the whole, various enthusiasts taking their limits, while others tried every possible fly, to no avail . . . The recent field trial attracted nearly 75 entries, and over 100 quail were liberated during the course of the events.

Ever hear of eight gunners placing first in a trap shoot? It happened at the Ipswich Fish and Game Association's weekly matches, where M. Doyle, J. Henderson, E. Duravazze, W. Labombarde, L. Webb, L. Sweeney, O. Arlin and H. Kent each scored a 23.

The Pittsfield Sportsman's Club plans to raise about 8000 brownies to legal size this year, with a pond cleaned out and refilled awaiting their arrival. This organization gave half of its total trout stock to outlying towns for release in local waters this spring. Fine work!
